THE HOWE SCHOOL

WAS founded by the munificence of Dr. Zadok Howe, of Billerica, who, dying in 1851, left his entire fortune to this institution, to afford the youth of Billerica and adjoining towns an opportunity to obtain a thorough education in the higher English branches of study and the preparation for college.

EXAMINATION for admission is on the first Monday after the close of the Spring term, in reading, writing, spelling, geography, grammar with parsing, and arithmetic, including common and decimal fractions. Pupils must be twelve years of age, produce certificates of vaccination, and of moral and orderly behavior in the school last attended. Orderly youth who study will find no difficulty in this examination, and no others could pursue higher studies with advantage. Scholars immoral or insubordinate are expelled.

A special examination for admission is held on the Saturday before the beginning of the winter term, and also on the Saturday before the beginning of the Spring term, when applicants qualified to enter any of the regular classes will be admitted.

There are three terms; of thirteen, fourteen, and thirteen weeks. The school year begins with the beginning of the Fall term on the first Monday of September. Vacations, besides legal holidays, one week in December, one in March and ten at midsummer. Anniversary, the last Friday of the Spring term, when "old scholars" are especially welcome.

The studies are preparatory to college, French, and the higher English branches. The term charge, payable in advance, will be $4.00 after July, 1881. There are no extras. Text books are furnished at wholesale prices.

The School Roll now numbers 773. Of fifty State academies, this is the eighth best endowed. Neighboring towns should be interested in its standing and advantages. Several families combining might, by turns, transport scholars, saving board, and affording healthful recreation; or board can be had near the Seminary. Parents are earnestly desired to keep their sons and daughters continuously at the Academy four years, to complete the course of study.
